THE RAINBOWED ANGEL

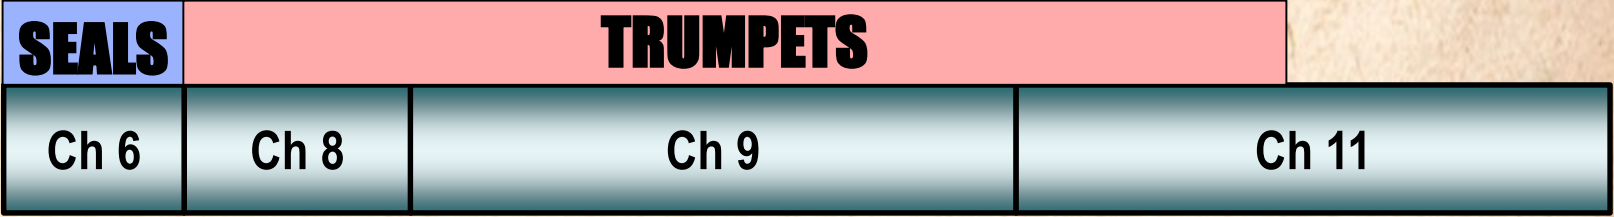

This "little scroll" is the most important fragment of the apocalypse because it contains the catastrophe of the plot, without which all the rest would be of little interest to the believer. By the angel holding the little scroll "in his hand," his power is identified with the execution of its contents, and the character of these is indicated by his voice. They are "the lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and earthquake, and great hail," of ch 11:19 — the judgments of the seventh vial; which exhaust the wrath of Deity, and give victory to the saints, and rest for a thousand years.
